

MOTORISTS MAY NOW "PAY AS YOU RIDE"

Local Maxwell Representative
Announces a New Deferred
Payment Plan.

Acting on the sound principle that automobiles can and will eventually be generally sold on the same basis as pianos, real estate and other commodities of value, C. R. Cuppet, of Cuppet Bros., local Maxwell representative, announces in this issue a time-payment plan by which the prospective motorist of this city and vicinity can secure Maxwell cars without any appreciable encroachment on their financial resources and investments.

"Pay as you ride" is the concise way in which Mr. Cuppet summarizes the details of the plan.

"Modern conditions often demand that a man make use of his entire capital in his business or in his professional equipment," declares Mr. Cuppet. "Often, even the relatively small amount needed to pay the cash down price of even a Maxwell automobile is large enough to keep him from taking his money from the channels in which it is at work."

"The automobile business must recognize this condition. I have worked out a plan which I am putting into effect here, for the benefit of my customers who may be so situated."

"This plan enables the man of average means to buy a car and enjoy it while he is paying for it, and enables him, as well, to pay for it out of his regular income. This plan I am putting at work Monday. It will be eligible in the case of every car I can secure from the Detroit factory, on my schedule calls for more Maxwell cars than have ever been delivered here in any cold weather month. At present I can make immediate delivery under this 'Pay as you ride' plan."

OIL AND GAS

and Company drilled a well through the fifth sand and found nothing but gas in the 100-foot.

Late Field Development.

In the Dorseyville field, the Rushville Drilling Company has drilled its test on the Seibert farm through the thirty-foot sand and it shows for a fair producer, good for fifty to seventy-five barrels a day. South of the Seibert farm test, Alex Walley has drilled his test on the McFarland farm into the thirty-foot pay and the well has made one twenty-five barrel flow.

In the lower southwest districts light wells and dusters are the best offered. In Union district, Tyler county, Moorhead and Jones drilled No. 14 on the A. and J. Jones farm through the Big Injun sand and developed a heavy flow of salt water and a light showing of oil. In McElroy district, the American Oil Development Company has completed No. 4 on the Elmore Spencer farm and has a ten-barrel pumper in the Big Injun sand. This location is 1,500 feet north of production on the F. M. and Mary White farm.

In Clay district, Monongalia county, the Pentress Gas Company drilled a test on the D. C. Core farm through the Big Injun sand and developed a fair gas pressure. On Taney creek, Troy district, Gilmer county, the Crude Oil Company drilled its second test on the F. J. Waggoner farm into the salt sand and developed a gasser with a capacity of one-half million cubic feet a day.

Southeastern Ohio.
The shallow sand districts in southeastern Ohio are completing a large number of wells. At the present time Noble county heads the list of shallow sand districts. In Jefferson township, C. E. Hammond and Company drilled No. 17 on the John Ritterbeck farm through the Baell Run sand and got a light pumper. The Rado Oil and Gas Company's No. 11 on the Lena Crum farm is a three-barrel pumper in the same formation. In Elk township, one-half mile south of production, J. W. Bernier drilled a test on the Phillip Ullman farm through the stray sand and will have a light pumper.

In the old Pomroy field in Meigs county, Thompson and Clark drilled a test on the John Blair farm through the Cow Run sand and found it barren. In the Stockport district, Penn township, Morgan county, Keller

Treatment is Accorded British Prisoners of War in Prussian Camps.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
LONDON, Nov. 21, 2:45 a. m.—The British press bureau has published the reports of James W. Gerard, the American ambassador to Germany, and members of the embassy staff in Berlin, relative to the condition of British prisoners of war in the camp at Wittenberg, Prussia. Lithgow Osborne reported that his whole impression of the camp authorities was utterly unlike that which he had received in every other camp he visited. Instead of regarding their charges as honorable prisoners of war, he stated, they apparently regarded them as criminals whom a regime of fear alone sufficed to keep them in obedience. "All evidence of kindly human feeling between the authorities and the prisoners was lacking," said Mr. Osborne, "and in no other camp have I found such signs of fear on the part of the prisoners that what they might say to me would result in suffering for them afterwards."

THE ENGLISH SPARROW

Forty Years Ago the Pests Were Sold for 50 Cents a Pair.

(Indianapolis News.)
It is remarkable that the English sparrows, which were introduced into Indianapolis about forty years ago, and which multiplied prodigiously, are now lessening in numbers. This is not only true of these birds in this city, but along the country roads, where they were once numerous. It is said that the rigors of our winters have been too great even for these tough little Britons, and that they have frozen to death even in the ivy mantled churches where they sought refuge.

The other day, in Indoor and Out, a weekly paper, once published in Indianapolis, of the date of November 15, 1875, the writer found this advertisement:

English sparrows—Of our importation now ready for shipment. Hardy and thoroughly acclimated. The non-migrating insectivorous birds will soon rid your trees and bushes of worms and all fruit despoiling insects.

The sparrow will devour large quantities of the larvae of the grasshopper, cotton worms and all insects which are now the pest of this country. Hundreds of thousands of dollars could have been saved in the vicinity of Memphis had this bird been present to destroy the buffalo gnat. Prices: Caged, 50c a pair; twelve pairs for $5.00; 100 birds for $18.00.

Cash with order. Correspondence solicited—Buel and Sons, Importers and dealers in birds of all kinds, Flatbush, L. I., N. Y.

Alas, that all the fine things here set forth to grace the little bird should have proved untrue! Some years before the date of this advertisement the poet Bryant wrote an ode of welcome to "The Old World Sparrow," in which one stanza of which he said: "And the army worm and the Hessian."

And the dreaded canker worm shall die; And fairer harvests shall crown the year, For the old world sparrow at last is here."

It was found that the English sparrow was no "bug eater." He liked grain better than caterpillars, and in many places, it is said, did more harm to growing crops than army worms or grasshoppers. A single pair may raise as many as six broods in a season, and it has been estimated that in ten years its progeny might be numbered in the hundreds of millions. But now it is apparent that their number is decreasing and they are no more dreaded as pests and crop destroyers.

WHAT WILL YOU DO WITH JESUS?

By Apostle R. C. Russell.

It is generally conceded that the more highly people become educated the more nearly they come to a unity on the various arts and sciences of the present world; for example, take one hundred men and send them to one hundred of our most up-to-date colleges and when they obtain the highest diplomas grantable by the colleges they will come to a unity on the most difficult problems of mathematics or any other real science. The question may then be consistently asked, why so? The answer is quite apparent. There is no standard book on any of these of higher origin than that produced by man himself. Therefore, when men follow the true rules of the science they are studying they are bound to come to a unity, and there is no dirt today in the minds of seekers for scientific truth that cannot be satisfied, when that science pertains to the things of this world.

Why then are there said to be in the science of religion in the world today sixteen hundred and forty-five ways to heaven, no two of them alike, yet all said to be right, and many say that "it does not matter which one of these the seeker for salvation travels on, he will get to the unity with the rest of the human race if he is only earnest, honest and sincere."

I ask, would that kind of logic (?) go in the science of mathematics? Would it not be as consistent for one public school of this city to teach that the war of 1812 was fought in 1812, while another taught the date to be 1833 and the third taught it 1845? How long would the people stand for that? Yet we expect the professors to teach us real logical truths while we are young, but when we get what is commonly called "religion" we are expected to throw away all logic and accept that which is causing Christianity to be the laughing stock of infidelity. While Roman Catholicism says that Protestantism is a mass of silly contradictions.

Who can solve this conundrum? 1. If it takes all the so-called Christian churches unitedly to form the real church of Christ, can a person be saved by uniting with anything less than the whole number?

2. If it does not matter what you believe why ask any person to change his present belief, or why are the churches changing their creeds?

3. At this moment I have many creeds upon my desk, no two being alike. Several say that God has fore-ordained a certain number to be eternally saved while He has fore-ordained all the rest of the church people and heathen as well as infidels and Jews to be eternally burned in a lake of fire and brimstone, but of recent years they have revised the oldest of them and put in the new doctrine of "all who die in infancy and all others beyond the reach of the outward means of grace are regenerated and saved by Christ through the Spirit."

The old creed said all unbaptized infants went to hell to burn forever, and their hymn book had in it "there are infants in hell not a span long." Now they have all gotten out, and so the Detroit Journal had the following on the creed revision: "Ding dong bell, babies out of hell. Who put them in?" John Calvin. Who took them out? The D. D.'s with a doubt.

Notice that all outside of the Gospel reach are saved. Is not that salvation for the heathen without the Gospel? If he is going to heaven without the Gospel, why send missionaries to them? Is it not understood that if they reject the Gospel when they hear it they will go to hell? Then for God's sake and their own don't send them to hell. Keep the missionaries in America.

But the standard book (Bible) in this science, says, "The Gospel is the power of God unto salvation." How then can heathen ignorance save a man?

The text book from which all true religion is taught has many warnings in it to the effect that there would come a time when people would not endure sound teaching but would instead rather follow the pleasures of the world than God, and so that they would not be troubled when thus following their own desires they do as one of the true professors (Paul) said they would. "For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine, but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they, (the pastors, R. C. R.), shall turn away their (people's) ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables. (Death-bed stories, R. C. R.) 2 Tim. 4:3, 4.

Paul also says in 2 Tim. 3:7: (the persons; R. C. R.), are "ever learning and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth."

Is it not today like it says in Isa. 9:16: "For the leaders of this people cause them to err; and they that are lead of them are destroyed."

The people of today fulfill the prophecy of Isa. 30:10: "Which say to the seers, see not; and to the prophets, prophesy not unto us right things, speak unto us smooth things, prophesy deceits."

Then when they come to the judgment they will fulfill Jer. 16:19, 20: "The Gentiles shall come unto thee from the ends of the earth, and shall say, surely our fathers have inherited lies, vanity, and things where-in is no profit."

If the above conditions do not prevail at present they surely never will, for if a man does not like what he hears in one church all he needs to do is keep looking around and if he cannot find it in any of them he can hire a man to preach just anything he wants preached and when that hired man does not suit his taste all he has to do is advertise for another and God (?) will soon call him one if the hire can be agreed upon.

Who would attend a church today if it were exactly like Christ's?

When Christ was upon the earth He organized His church with twelve Apostles, Seventies, High Priests, Bishops, Patriarchs, (Evangelists), Bishops, Elders, Priests, Teachers, and Deacons as the staff of officers, and told them to preach all things whatsoever He had commanded them. Matt. 28:12, 20. His servant, Paul, in summing up that which he had preached, said: "I have not shunned to declare unto you the whole counsel of God." And in his teachings he enumerates the principles of the doctrine of Christ as faith, repentance, baptism, laying on of hands, resurrection of the dead and eternal judgment, and he says the officers and gifts of the Spirit were put in the church for the perfecting of the saints, and the work of the ministry, and the edification of the church of Christ. Christ said that as long as the ministry were called of Him they would preach the pure Gospel and the signs of Mark 16:15, 20, would follow the believers, for he that is sent of God will speak God's word, and will not preach for money and divine for hire; but when the heathen of home-made teachers would fill the pulpits they would deny the gift of God as being any longer for the people and also tell the people that God Himself had ceased to talk to the human race, and thus by deception they would keep the people in the dark until they would both fall into the ditch.

Is it not a potent fact that if the college professors of this country were as far from a unity today as the religious professors they would lose their seats tomorrow?

Why do not the laymen demand that the professors come to a unity on what the Gospel really is or cease to hire them any longer.

If the laymen's convention were to do that today there would be a public notice sent broadcast tomorrow for a clergyman's convention, and it would continue in session until the majority got up some kind of a creed which they would at least agree to all preach, but if that new creed were the pure Gospel of Christ would the mass of the people obey it? I will just say right here that I have sufficient faith in the honesty of the layman today that if his leaders were trying to lead him in the right direction and he could see that they were more anxious for the salvation of his soul than for the loosening (converting) of his purse strings, he would cry out as of old: "Men and brethren, what must I do to be saved?" And then when the leaders were all speaking the same thing the old Jerusalem Gospel, the honest in heart would all receive the truth (God's word); and the layman would then be far better acquainted with the ways of God than he is today.

Why not then do as is advised in Jer. 6:16: "Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls." But under the present system of "it does not matter what you believe as long as you are honest and sincere," they will continue to say, relative to the above command, "We will not walk therein."

If God has not spoken to the people of this earth since the last revelation in the Bible, is it not surely time He did speak and bring all this terrible confusion to an end?

If he did not speak to any person and used him as prophet like unto men of old, would the present religious teacher turn the ears of the people toward him or from him?

Is it not true that the people known as the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints say that God really has set up his kingdom in this age as in former times and that he does reveal himself as in former times and they invite all people out to hear and judge for themselves, but instead of being advised from the pulpits of the world to go and investigate, they are advised to stay away? Though a real servant of God, Paul said: "Prove all things, hold fast to that which is good."

Now how will you know your religion to be the real true one if you don't compare it with the Scriptures and find it in exact harmony therewith?

The real true church of Christ ought to be identical with all its officers and teachings as well as gifts and blessings today with the one He organized when on earth in person before His final ascension and Apostles Russell says it positively is and is to prove it he invites all people to the brick church on Stealey street Sunday at 2 p. m. and 7:30 p. m., where he will set forth the identity of the church he represents with that of the former day saints.

The subject for the evening service is "The Benefits of the Fraternal Orders More Than That of the Churches of the World."

All are cordially invited.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 20.—A mandamus suit to compel the secretary of state to issue a license to the Wabash railway to operate in Missouri and filed in the Missouri supreme court today by J. L. Minnis, general solicitor of the Wabash. The mandamus suit was filed as a result of the refusal of the secretary of state to issue a license to the company because it is incorporated in Indiana. A recent statute of Missouri provides that all new railroads doing an interstate business in Missouri shall be incorporated in the state. The suit is a friendly one, designed to test the legal point involved. The supreme court granted a temporary mandamus order and gave each side ten days in which to file briefs.
